

FOLLOWING THE CRUMBS OF CRUELTY HOME

PRESENTED BY ROD ANDERSON

Our personalities provide endless, unfathomable difficulties. Processes that constitute us make us problematic to ourselves. In many ways we are our greatest challenge.

In this talk I would like to single out one for attention. The fact that we are inhabited by something lethal. Something in us that makes us dangerous to ourselves and society. We never stop being lethal. However, against this we possess an ordinary counter tendency – what might be called an innate morality – where holding oneself back is an outgrowth of the capacity for love and concern.

I would like to pick at threads of this topic to see how they permeate self and society.”

SOUTHERN AFRICAN ASSOCIATION OF JUNGIAN ANALYSTS
ANALYTICAL PSYCHOLOGY LECTURE SERIES

MORE ABOUT THE PRESENTER

Rod Anderson is a clinical psychologist and Jungian Analyst. He was one of the founder members of the Southern African Association of Jungian Analysts (SAAJA). Over the intervening years he has served this organisation in many capacities, including being the Association's President for five years. He is currently serving on their Ethics and Finance Committees. He continues to be actively involved in the training of Jungian analysts. This encompasses all components of their four year training – including their personal analysis, their clinical supervision, as well as in their academic programme.

Until 2014 Rod was the Senior Clinical Psychologist and Head of The Child and Adolescent Out- Patient Unit at the Division of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry at Red Cross Children's Hospital as well as a Senior Lecturer in The Department of Psychiatry at University of Cape Town.

Rod is currently in a limited private practice seeing patients for analytic psychotherapy and supervising clinicians in their own clinical work with children, adolescents, adults and their families.
